

There is a plus for a minus.

I am disappointed because the political gain too often wins over it common sense.

I am disappointed because politics has interfered intrusively with it being called elderly.

I am disappointed because of the news gathering loads of numbers with them scatters appropriate facts over the masses and that as their task and right consider.

I am disappointed that a minister disgraces his own laws transgress and do not resign.

I am also disappointed to have someone of royal blood of his own credibility no longer saw the borders abroad.

I am disappointed because the fat West does not see a chance under developed areas with their own facilities a democracy to become.

I am disappointed because we see no opportunity to bury past dogmas to wear.

I am disappointed because of Sinterklaas, especially his helpers, from folklore should be deleted.

I am disappointed because of any reasonable or well thought out decision fierce protests must lead.

I am disappointed because of protests too often in our democracy have obtained tolerance status.

There is a minus for a plus.

I rejoice at the facts that we live in Western democracy.

I rejoice at the facts that our democracy is based on the religion of Judaism, the wisdom of the Greeks, and the judgment of the Romans.

I rejoice at I welcome the fact that an attempt is being made to build a European Union who wants to and will eliminate wars from the analogue.

I rejoice at I am delighted with the fact that the major Care for Care is being implemented by the highly motivated workers from doctors to cleaners.

I rejoice at the facts that thousands and thousands of volunteers are becoming but ready to help and support others.

I rejoice at the facts that we have such fantastic schools, vocational schools, have high schools and universities.

I rejoice at I am delighted to be able to vote about the facts and the possibility
I rejoice at have our own will to display, vent, or other thoughts to be able to choose.

I rejoice at I am pleased with the fact that through the universities and hospitals the leave unknown and unknown micros, as macros in the imaging to appear.

I rejoice at I rejoice at welcome the fact that opinions that are not mine are the chance and rights have been heard, interpreted and may be shared.

I am delighted with the facts that I am allowed to live in my own beautiful
Netherlands fight for its preservation, so that we live there and may love demonstrate.

There are several pluses and minuses to be combined in this Non Solus.

Go ahead. Keep things in balance.
