

Patience

It can just happen that you are given a party in a small village that still imagines itself. A harvest festival still is.

Most of the farmers who can harvest have left. And with the climate weapon, the nitrogen in hand, the ell of the last farmers are also put on guard.

Nice to experience that of the attendees at the harvest festival there were people who support the current cabinet policy with regard to nitrogen. It can be difficult, Bredero would say.

I meet acquaintances, after two years of Corona hindrance a surprise. The harvest festival thoroughly seizes the social opportunities to meet each other.

Supported by the beautiful weather, the good preparation of the party, organizations with their best foot forward. It's great.

May I meet an old acquaintance. Three years of not seeing each other. Just talk, and cheaply conclude that : "As long as you have patience". Everything will be fine again. I did not share the latter, but I did share that our government is not showing patience with the nitrogen policy. So no beauty deserves a prize.

Let's say you have qualities to ignore problems or wishes. With the reason that it is better to wait, postponement of suspected execution. Would this demonstrate the ability of patience? Yes, provided that the patient continues to behave calmly and controlled.

In the growing group of girls and boys, the group of scientists, more and more problems, questions, answers are provided. Answers have also been found for the 'patience' trait. Evolutionary psychology and cognitive science has unleashed tests on individuals with simple preliminary tests. You conducted it became an experiment in which someone has to make the choice between a small reward in the short term or a more valuable reward in the longer term. Experience shows that all subjects, humans and animals, prefer the small reward in the short term. Mind you, scientists are only human.

Can your patience learn to make it your own. I think it is possible to think through the quality of patience, helped by the striking proverbs about the quality 'patience'.

Poem on the underside of a drawbridge over the Wilhelmina canal in Tilburg. There are several bridges in the Netherlands that are provided with a saying, a saying or poem at the bottom. Often educationally intended for the mob that waits impatiently for that already opened bridge.

The poem:

"Here the water rippling from now to later.
The open bridge is a pass on the place on the stream,
A silence cross your dream".

We have been allowed to sail through several bridges with inscriptions. It would be nice if this channel of communication is used more.

Another example:

"Patience is such a beautiful thing,
To perform his target in a difficult task;
I saw this the other day in our cat,
Who was in hiding for hours,
To lurk on a mouse.
She did not go before she had the mouse,
Trapped, in her claws."

This poem by Hieronymus van Alphen 1746—1803

More than two hundred years ago, the quality of patience was already in the spotlight. He wrote this in the collection; "Prove of small poems for children.

I advise everyone to read and think through the proverbs and poems with the subject of Patience. You can certainly learn to control your impatience afterwards. Do you remember the order :

Learning, Learning to learn. Learning to think. .
